LEGARDA maintains commanding lead in the latest Pulse Asia survey.

Loren, Ping, Kiko, Alan, Tito 'sure winners'

FORMER SEN. LOREN LEGARDA CONTINued to pull away from other senatorial aspirants with a rating of 46.6 percent, more than 10 percentage points ahead of her nearest possible rivals, according to results of the latest Pulse Asia survey.

In distant second were Senators Panfilo Lacson and Francis Pangilinan who were tied at 34.6 percent.

They were followed by Taguig-Pateros Rep. Alan Peter Cayetano (32.7 percent) and former Sen. Vicente Sotto III (28.6 percent). Cayetano is a brother of Sen. Pia Cayetano.

The non-commissioned survey, titled "Senatorial Voting Preferences," was conducted nationwide from Jan. 25 to 29, and used a multi-stage probability sample of 1,200 respondents aged 18 and above.

The survey has a margin of error of plus or minus 3 percentage points at the 95-percent confidence level.

In a statement, Pulse Asia said Legarda, Lacson, Pangilinan, Cayetano and Sotto might be considered sure winners if elections were held today because their statistical

AFTER SPENDING A GOOD PART of his life behind bars for the killing of American Col. James "Nick" Rowe in 1989, Donato Continente remains steadfast in an advocacy that may get him back to jail or, worse, kill him.

Released on June 28, 2005, Continente is an active member of an organization of former detainees, the Samahan ng Ex-Detainees Laban sa Detensyon at para Amnestiya (Selda), and continues to work for the release of political prisoners and against the violation of human rights.

"Nothing has changed. Perhaps it's just that the area I work in now is much wider. Before, I only did organizing work in the maximum security compound [of the New Bilibid Prison in Muntinlupa City]," Continente, 48, said yesterday in a phone interview.

Continente and Juanito Itaas were convicted in 1989 of killing Rowe, a Vietnam War hero and one of America's most highly decorated soldiers. Rowe was the highest ranking US officer killed in the Philippines since the communist insurgency began nearly 40 years ago.

Itaas and Continente were sentenced to life in prison.

DETAINEE NO. 517, CELL NO. 3: From the Makati police headquarters, former Governor Leviste was transferred to the Makati City jail early last night.

Politics of survival may split Wednesday Group

By TJ Burgonio

TWO MEMBERS OF THE SENATE'S Wednesday Group, Senators Joker Arroyo and Ralph Recto, have been named to the senatorial slate of the administration's Team Unity. It would appear that Senate President Manuel Villar Jr. and the three other members of the group will go their separate ways in the race for the Senate.

The position of another member of the group, Majority Floor Leader Francis Pangilinan, was not known at press time.

Speaker Jose de Venecia disclosed yesterday the names of the administration's nine senatorial aspirants which included Arroyo and Recto. Though neither Arroyo nor Recto has declared running under the unity ticket.

Despite avowals that the members of the Wednesday Group would stick together, Villar was "inclined" to join the Estrada-led United Opposition (UNO), while Arroyo was keen on aligning with Team Unity, said a reelectionist senator, who asked not to be named.

De Venecia said the soon-to-be completed list of Team Unity also included reelectionist Sen. Edgardo Angara, for-

THE FAMILY WAS JUST about done with lunch yesterday when told that the Makati Regional Trial Court wanted Antonio "Tony" Leviste arrested for murder.

For his youngest daughter Toni's account, the former governor of Batangas was ready to surrender within minutes. Along with Toni and her sisters Charley and Jose and their mother Celia, he made his way down the Leviste-owned LPL building in Makati City.

At the same time, the Makati police chief, Supt. Gilbert Cruz, was on his way up to serve the arrest warrant.

Police took custody of Leviste, 67, at around 1:30 p.m. for the fatal shooting of his longtime friend and associate Rafael de las Alas on Jan. 12. Cruz told reporters later in a press briefing at the Makati police headquarters that Leviste went "peacefully" with authorities.

The court issued the arrest warrant half an hour earlier, after approving the upgrade of the charge against the ex-governor from homicide to murder, a nonbailable crime.

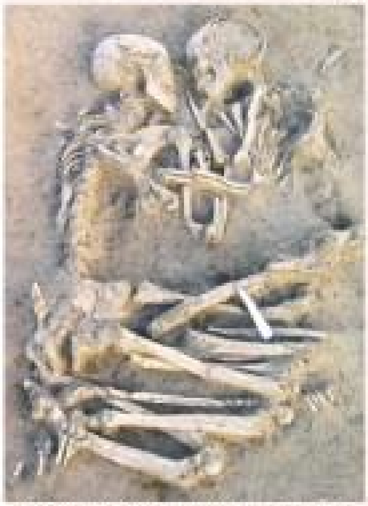

"The moment I learned that a warrant of arrest has been issued for me, I came immediately to submit myself to the authorities. As I said before, I have nothing to hide. I am innocent, my conscience is clear and I am anxious to clear my name," Leviste, unruffled and wearing a light yellow shirt, said at the briefing.

"Meanwhile," he added, "I must condemn, in the strongest terms, the manner in which my constitutional rights were trampled upon. However, I still have faith in our judicial system and I am confident that in the end I will be vindicated."

Leviste is now at the Makati City Jail.

'I've never been so moved ... this is something special'

"THE ETERNAL EMBRACE": Archaeological dig site in northern Italy yielded the skeletons of a couple buried 5,000 to 6,000 years ago. Archaeologists are calling the exciting find an extraordinary case.

ROME—CALL IT THE ETERNAL embrace.

Archaeologists in Italy have discovered a couple buried 5,000 to 6,000 years ago, hugging each other.

"It's an extraordinary case," said Elena Menotti, who led the team on their dig near the northern city of Mantova.

"There has not been a double burial found in the Neolithic period, much less two people 'hugging'—and they really are hugging."

The Neolithic Age refers to the last phase of the Stone Age beginning in 8000 BC.

Menotti said she believed the two, almost certainly a man and a woman although that needs to be confirmed, died young because their teeth were mostly intact and not worn down.

"I must say that when we discovered it, we all became very excited. I've been doing this job for 25 years. I've done digs at Pompeii, all the famous sites," she told Reuters.

"But I've never been so moved because this is the discovery of something special."

A laboratory will now try to determine the couple's ages at the time of death and how long they had been buried. Reuters

'HOUSTON, WE HAVE A PROBLEM'

Moonstruck astronaut charged with attempted murder of rival

ORLANDO, FLORIDA—LIKE MOST of today's astronauts, Lisa Marie Nowak worked in relative obscurity—even last July, when she took the space flight that she had spent 10 years at National Aeronautics and Space Administration (Nasa) hoping for.

She is famous now, the smiling image of her in astronaut gear a sharp contrast with her police mug shot—a woman with wild hair wearing an expression of personal devastation.

Captain Nowak, of Houston, is charged with the attempted murder of a rival for the affections of a fellow astronaut. Police officials say she drove 900 miles from Texas to Florida, wearing a diaper so that she would not have to stop for rest breaks. In Orlando, she confronted her rival in a parking lot, attacking her with pepper spray.

Nowak was in disguise at the time, wearing a wig. She had brought a steel mallet, a knife, pepper spray, 4 feet of rubber tubing, latex gloves and garbage bags with her, the police said.

Many inside and outside Nasa are wondering how the problems of Nowak, who served in the Navy before joining Nasa, were

CBCP STATEMENT ON THE NATION'S HOUSING PROBLEM

"Any person or family that, without any direct fault on his or her own, does not have suitable housing is the victim of an injustice."
(Pontifical Commission Justice and Peace on the International Year of Shelter for the Homeless, 1988)

As we close our Year of Social Concerns, we call the attention of our people to a grave problem that many, especially among the urban poor, suffer the lack of adequate housing. The Church teaches that "the principle of the universal destination of goods requires that the poor, the marginalized and in all cases those whose living conditions interfere with their proper growth should be the focus of particular concern. To this end, the preferential option for the poor, and the decisions which it inspires in us, cannot but embrace the immense multitudes of the hungry, the needy, the homeless, those without health care and above all, those without hope for the future." (Compendium of the Social Doctrine of the Church #182)

Adequate and humane dwelling is a basic right. (cf. Compendium #166) Their inadequacy breeds other problems such as immoralities in the home, the abuse of children, the lack of education of many young people, unhygienic conditions in the family, joblessness among the people, malnutrition of children, and criminality.

Our urban poor people, as human beings and children of God, have basic human rights to clean and inexpensive water, decent house, communities free of stagnant disease-ridden water, and uncollected garbage. They have a right to security of tenure, to be free of a constant threat of eviction and fire, and very importantly, they have a right to organize themselves to seek solutions to their problems in a democratic and a non-violent manner.

Despite their own efforts and those of many groups, including government and the Church, we cannot say our urban poor people enjoy these rights today.

We are all compelled to do everything possible to remedy this situation. We must all work that all may have their own homes that are suitable for God's persons who are made in God's image and likeness. We cannot achieve complete success in a short time. We lack resources for one thing but we can do something.

A. We call on those concerned to stop uncaring evictions and demolitions. We have laws in the land that tell us the proper processes for eviction. Let these laws be respected and followed, especially by law enforcing agencies. Among other things, these laws provide us that relocation sites be prepared to receive the evicted families and that these sites should have adequate provisions for basic human needs, such as water, light, access roads, schooling for the children and work for the people. If plans and money are set aside for improvements of the cities and towns that would necessitate people to be moved elsewhere, also plans and money be set aside for the places where they are to be settled with painstaking consultations.

B. Government officials have made promises and even made official proclamations of lands to provide security of tenure to many poor families sitting on government properties. Many of these proclamations are not followed; they have remained empty words. Let the officials not play on the basic needs of the people, and cuddle them in pursuit of election victory.

C. As we did in our 1997 Letter on Homelessness, we again urge the immediate creation of a government-church-civil society commission that will provide guidelines for the further development of our cities so that the urban poor will have a decent place to live in and development will combine with sound environmental concern. The said commissions in each city and town can immediately conduct consultations to discuss and resolve the issues on homelessness in a pro-active way. Planning of mass housing for the poor is a concern of public officials for the sake of the common good, and not only of property developers for their own profit.

D. We commend the initiatives of various groups who on their own provide for housing for our poor families. We encourage all people of goodwill, especially people of faith to support these groups or to create their own initiatives to help the homeless to be partners in pursuing the endeavor.

We cannot afford to be indifferent and complacent in front of this grave injustice that many of our brothers and sisters suffer day by day. We, as a Church, are committed to put the resources of the church towards this dream.

While Filipinos are getting known all over the world as good construction workers and builders, we are not able to provide houses for our homeless.

Let the dream of God for his people be ours. "Look, I am going to create new heavens and new earth. They will build houses and live in them; they will plant vineyards and eat their fruit. For the days of my people will be like the days of a tree, and my chosen ones will themselves use what they have made." (Is 65, 17-22)

Let us dream the dream of God and work that this dream may come true!
